

THE WINES AT VINUM

We begin with Douro wines, our home vineyards.

We offer the wines produced by the Symington family, such as those from the legendary Quinta do Vesuvio, one of Portugal's greatest vineyards. We also list the wines produced by Prats & Symington, a joint venture between the Symington family and the Prats, a renowned Bordeaux wine making family. Since 2000 this partnership have been making some of the Douro's finest red wines, in particular Chryseia, the first Portuguese wine ever to be listed in the Wine Spectator's top 100 wines of the world.

The Altano wines are also listed, coming from the historic Quinta do Ataíde in the remote Vilarica valley. Most of Ataíde's lovely vineyards were planted in the early 1980's, so the vines are now some 30 year's old and are producing wonderful fruit. We would like to highlight in particular the Altano Quinta de Ataíde 'BIO' wine made from organically farmed vineyards. This wine is typical of the New Douro wine style that is achieving such success around the world.

The wines from the Douro valley are produced from a wide selection of indigenous and traditional grape varieties. The Touriga Nacional and Touriga Franca stand out for their extraordinary quality, and are used in many of the red wines produced.

The Douro is best known for its red wines which are normally deeply coloured, full-bodied, with firm ripe tannins and are the perfect accompaniment to game and red meat dishes. In recent years the white wines from the higher lying and cooler areas of the Douro have also been recognized for their wonderful quality.

In the second part of The Vinum Wine List we present the wines from other wine producing regions in Portugal and from around the world.
This list has been organized to help you with your choice of wine.

Since many of our visitors are from different parts of the world and possibly less familiar with Portugal's numerous wine regions, we have decided to organize the Wine List according to the style of the wine as opposed to the region.

We feel sure that by organizing the Wine List in this manner it will make your choice of wine easier when pairing with the dishes that you have ordered for your meal.

However, all the members of the VINUM team are always available to help you to make the most appropriate choice.

In the third part of the Wine List we present our Ports and the wines of Madeira.
We have a significant number of wines served by the glass form all sections of this wine list.

SYMINGTON WINES AND FAMILY FRIENDS

SYMINGTON WINES AND FAMILY FRIENDS

The rest of the Vinum Restaurant & Wine Bar menu is made up of wines from wineries that are friends of the Symington family, among them the association Primum Familiae Vini - PFV.

The PFV is an association of some of the world's leading wine families. Membership is restricted to a maximum of 12 companies and each must be entirely family owned, with several generations of family ownership. Each PFV member must be amongst the very finest producers of their wine region and only one producer from each region is allowed. Each member must have a long-established and world-wide reputation for outstanding quality.

All PFV members share a passion and commitment to their respective wine regions which is virtually without parallel.

The members of the PFV meet regularly at each other's homes and vineyards to exchange information and experience. Many of the younger generation of each family take the opportunity to work in another PFV member's vineyards and wineries.

Today, Primum Familiae Vini has 11 leading wine families as members:

Marchesi Antinori — Tuscany

Château Mouton Rothschild — Bordeaux

Joseph Drouhin — Burgundy

Egon Müller Scharzhof — Saar, Mosel

Hugel & Fils — Alsace

Champagne Pol Roger — Champagne

Famille Perrin — Rhône-Sud

Symington Family Estates — Douro

Tenuta San Guido — Bolgheri, Tuscany

OUR PORTS

OUR PORTS

The Symington Family have been producing the finest Ports in the Douro for over 130 years, but one of their ancestors, Beatrice Leitão de Cavalhosa Atkinson (great-grandmother of the current generation of Symingtons), was descended from one of the very first Port producers who is recorded as having shipped Port in 1652.

More than three centuries of experience and tradition is incorporated in these Ports.

We have desserts and cheeses that perfectly match our Graham's, Dow's, Warre's, Quinta do Vesuvio and Cockburn's Ports.

WHITE PORTS

The white grapes of the Douro produce a Fine White Port as well as a delicious Dry White Port.
Dry White Ports are served chilled between 6° and 8° Centigrade and are normally enjoyed as an aperitif.

White Port & Tonic is highly popular in the Portuguese summer and is now becoming better known in many other countries. Mixing a third of Graham's Dry Port with two thirds tonic water and adding a few ice cubes, a slice of lemon and a few mint leaves, makes a very refreshing aperitif.

"Lágrima" is a traditional and rich White Port that is also excellent served chilled.

TAWNY AND COLHEITA PORTS

Aged Tawnies and Colheita Ports are aged in seasoned oak casks. Over time they gain great complexity and elegance and acquire a burnished copper colour. Key to the quality of our wines is the care given to the maintenance of the oak casks by our team of ‘tanoeiros’ (coopers). Our coopers know and care for every individual barrel, many of which are over 70 year’s old, some are over 100 year’s old.

In the Graham’s tasting room, all these wines are regularly tasted and assessed in order to select the very best wines. When the Graham’s tasters, led by Charles Symington, arrive at what they consider to Colheitas are dated wines from one specific vintage and are aged in seasoned oak casks. A classic example is the Grahams 1952 that was bottled to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of HM Queen Elizabeth II of England.

LATE BOTTLED VINTAGE AND RESERVE PORTS

Late Bottled Vintage Port and the Reserve Ports are full-bodied wines with fine red-fruit flavours, great complexity and rich purple colours. These wines are aged in seasoned oak and then bottled relatively young, and are ready to drink once they are bottled. Six Grapes is Graham's oldest brand and dates back to the mid-19th century. Some of the very finest wines produced on the Graham's Quintas are selected to produce Six Grapes. This is one of the very few Reserve Ports made from some of the same vineyards that also make the great Vintage Ports.

Graham's Natura Reserve ..... 35 €

VINTAGE PORT

Vintage Port wines are produced only in exceptional years, generally three or four times a decade. To make a Vintage Port certain climatic conditions must be met throughout the vitiviniculatural year. 18 months after the wine is produced, it is declared as Vintage and bottled. It ages slowly in bottle, developing unique complex characteristics.

Vintage Port wine can be taken young, when it is opaque with an exuberant concentration of fruit. Over time, Vintage Port ages slowly but surely in bottle, its fruity flavor softening over time to acquire secondary aromas that confer outstanding characteristics and an exquisite elegance which is almost silken in mouth.

The Symington family has produced some of the best Vintage Port wines of the past 100 years.

NE OUBLIE

Ne Oublie dates from 1882, the year in which Andrew James Symington arrived in Portugal. Just three casks of this extraordinary Port wine were handed down to his great grandchildren who have now decided to bottle one, entrusting the other two casks to future generations.

'Ne Oublie' means do not forget and bears witness to this family's commitment to the Douro and to Port through four generations. It is a journey in time, a guardian of the Symington family's memories, in liquid form.

When you savour this wine with more than 130 years of history you will share one of this family's most treasured heirlooms; a wine that symbolizes more than any other the rich legacy they have built, and continue to build, in their Douro Valley vineyards.
